

Eawag Event: Discovery Day – Making Water Kiosks More Successful

September 22, 2015 |

27 Start-ups, researchers, NGOs, technology developers, and funders came together at Eawag on September 22 to exchange experiences and gain insight into how to implement and operate water kiosks more successfully. The day covered a variety of topics such as current challenges, behavior change, services, and how to increase the number of water kiosks.

There was a mix of presentations and group work sessions, which allowed Eawag researchers to share their knowledge and provided the participants with opportunities to develop ideas for new solutions. The workshop provoked interesting discussions and led participants to examine challenges from new perspectives. Participants can now test the ideas developed in the workshop within their organizations. The results of the workshop are available on request.
